

The Social Mirror

Yavapai Club was the scene of a most pleasant informal dance Tuesday evening, in honor of the winners of the handicap bowling tournament, Miss Helen Burmister and Mr. G. A. Bray.

After several dances, Mr. J. M. Ross, in words of commendation for the skillful bowling of the contestants, presented Miss Burmister with a beautiful silver bonbon dish and spoon, and to Mr. Bray a handsome claret bottle, with silver trimmings. Dancing was then continued, and the usual good time of Prescott's younger social set was enjoyed.

During the evening Miss Burmister and Mr. Robert Porter played several piano duets, which were heartily applauded. Miss Chilson's rendition of the beautiful song, "I'm just a wearying for you" was excellent. "Around the camp fire gleaming," the guests beat the tom-tom of the Apaches to the accompaniment of that ever popular two-step, "Big Indian Chief." A most exciting game of "five hundred" was continued until a late hour, when it was found that Miss Crofton had been successful in winning the high score prize, a pretty Japanese picture, while a dainty silk workbag was awarded Mrs. Meany for the greatest number of lone hands. Dainty refreshments proved a pleasant diversion from cards during the afternoon, though the game was again eagerly resumed. COUNCIL GIVES BAR TO ASSORTED GRIEVANCES.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

At the meeting of the city fathers last evening petitions were received, bills were referred to the proper committees, and a regular monthly business session was held.

Clerk Menden read the minutes of the previous meeting, and they were approved as read.

A request was made that the city council pass an ordinance prohibiting the building of fences over seven feet high. It was argued that fences above this height would be a detriment to the fire department in case of fire. A book ordinances from Salt Lake was referred to, and paragraphs read concerning high fences in that city. The council looked lightly on the matter, and left it to the chief of the fire department and City Attorney Herndon to report on as they saw fit.

Chief of Police in his report said that there had been 67 arrests during the month of September, the offenses being of a varied character.

Mrs. Ella Williams through her agent asked for the return of money that she had paid for taxes on property that she did not own. The council ordered a refund of $2 to be paid her, that being the amount claimed.

Z. O. Brown also appeared for a client on the tax question. It seems that the property holder that he represents was over assessed, and he requested that it be reduced. His request was granted.

Dr. Day's report was read and it proved to be a humorous one, as it referred to the report of certain physicians on the city water, and suggested that they attend to the affairs of their own department.

An elderly gentleman who lives on South Granite street, objected to the line surveyed by City Engineer Girard, and said that it would cause him to move his fence twelve feet if he did as instructed by the council. It seems that the gentleman had his fence enclosing some of the city's property, and for this reason was instructed to fence in his own property only.

A petition from property owners on N. Mt. Vernon street for a survey for the grade of that street was read, and the city engineer was instructed to oblige the petitioners. A recommendation from Superintendent Glass, that a sewer be laid in a certain part of this street was laid over until a later date.

Geo. Wood of South Marina street, requested that the crossing that is to be laid at the corner of Marina and Goodwin streets run east and west instead of north and south, as was at first planned.

The city engineer's reports and estimates were read on the cost and installation of culverts and drain pipes in the Goose Flat addition.

Bids from the various electrical and machine companies east and west were read and handed to Superintendent Glass and the water committee for inspection. They will report on them at the next meeting.

Last came the bills from the different municipal employees, and firms, for services and goods rendered during the last month. One bill was from a lady that had lost a boar lately. Her bill read: "300 lb. boar; guaranteed gentle, two years old; raised on bottle, $30."

All the bills were referred to the proper committees for inspection, and next meeting will probably be ordered paid.

OPENING OF MONDAY CLUB FOR FALL TERM.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

More than usual interest attached to the opening session of the Monday Club yesterday after the summer vacation, the affair partaking largely of the character of an entertainment and a social gathering.

Mrs. Geo. Ruffner, the president, presided, and Mrs. Reese Ling officiated as secretary. The president's report recounted what had been accomplished by the club during the past year in supporting the manual training department in the public school and in contributing towards the success and efficiency of the public library, closing with the recommendation that steps should be taken towards erecting a clubhouse for the organization.

The remainder of the afternoon was occupied with recitations, character sketches, and music, followed by the serving of delicious refreshments. Altogether it was a delightful social occasion and incidentally demonstrated the marked talent that is possessed by the members.

The music section of the club will hold its first meeting for this term in the kindergarten room this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Mrs. W. A. Cline as leader for the day.

How to Cure Corns and Bunions.

First soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood, and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequalled. For sale by all druggists.

VICIOUS MURDER AT CANANEA SMELTER.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Wednesday afternoon, shortly after four o'clock, a vicious murder occurred on the platform immediately outside the feed floor at the smelter, says the Cananea Herald. The parties to the regrettable affair were both Mexicans, one a boilermaker named Leoncio Gonzalez, the other a laborer on the feed floor named Margarita Salinas. The various steps leading to the bloody tragedy as learned from eye witnesses were as follows: Gonzalez, the murdered man, was one of a number of boilermakers engaged in laying steel plates on the feed floor—this being done to make a roadway for the handling of ore from the bins to the furnaces. Necessarily, the operation of the furnaces could not be interfered with, and the steel was being laid as opportunity offered. It was because of this that the quarrel arose which led to the killing. Gonzalez was placing a plate in position, and still had his finger underneath; as fate would have it, Salinas at the moment came across from the ore bin wheeling a barrow of charge for the furnaces, and when the heavy load struck the plate held by Gonzalez the resulting injury to his hand was inevitable. Enraged by pain, Gonzalez exchanged some angry words with Salinas, and finally struck him. Without more ado Salinas quietly left the feed floor and procuring a dagger from his coat returned to meet Gonzalez. The latter, seeing the approach of the armed man, immediately started on the run for the exit leading to the street east of the dust chamber, being closely pursued by Salinas. Although a clear pathway to possible escape was offered by the incline to the roadway, Gonzalez apparently preferred to fight the matter out, his weapons being a number of boilermaker's hammers lying in the little shed on the platform. Although Gonzalez hurled a number of these heavy instruments at his adversary, he failed to strike him, and with an oath Salinas plunged his murderous dirk into the neck of his victim. The knife entered the neck just above the collar-bone on the right side, severing the jugular vein, and causing death in but a few seconds. After accomplishing his bloody purpose the murderer ran down the incline to the roadway and turned up the hill to the west, all the while flourishing the deadly weapon. At the corner of the dust chambers, Salinas passed a buggy in which were Cashier Thomas Hawes of the Chivatera Bank, and Col. Thomas Ewing, the latter being armed, leaped from the buggy and cornered the fleeing man opposite the power house, compelling him to drop his dirk and submit to arrest. Retaining the knife as a keepsake, Mr. Ewing turned his prisoner over to the police, and he is now safely in the hands of proper authority.
